

Coalición de Religiosos/os de la ONU por la Justicia Región América Latina y el Caribe

Final Message - JCoR Brazil

We are hearts, minds, strengths and voices of women and men, indigenous, black, youth, Latinos, sisters and brothers of the laity and incarnate religious life, gathered in Brasilia to live the Coalition of Religious (JCoR): Justice at the heart of global transformation, starting from our local commitment to act in advocacy at the international level.

We take steps in the dreams of a Church that is Poor, Open, Caring and Going Out.

Tracing the synodal path, of listening and welcoming, we assume the commitment to Overcoming Social Inequality, we denounce a system that generates indigence, death and socio-environmental degradation and we embrace all living beings of our Common Home.

Our source is the Gospel, the Lord's presence that strengthens us: "Rejoice! Do not be afraid. Go to Galilee and there you will see me" (Mt 28:10).

We are nourished by an intense liberating spirituality and by the memory of the vital commitment of the martyrs of the journey, symbols of vocational fidelity to the Kingdom where "justice and peace will embrace" (Ps 85, 10).

We want to resound the liberating truth of Easter, which reveals the power of Life, in the midst of the cries and clamours of our sisters and brothers.

Let us walk together singing; may our struggles reinvigorate the joy of hope!
